

Gold and Blue Cripples Again in Shape and All is Serene at Notre Dame

EVERYBODY IS HAPPY AT N. D.

Gold and Blue Rounds Into Shape and Great Battle Is Expected With Wabash.

Gloom was scattered to the four winds and joy reigned supreme on the Notre Dame campus yesterday as an inventory of conditions in the Hoosier camp showed Harper's men to be speedily rounding into tip top shape.

Following the first series of early season setbacks, occasioned by numerous injuries, both big and small, during which coaches and students alike worried constantly lest Dame Fortune should wreck completely the gold and blue squad, the team is again getting back into a condition that strengthens the prophecies of critics that Notre Dame is perhaps the strongest aggregation in the west and one of the strongest in the country.

Everybody Sniling. Coach Harper, Assistant Coach Rockne, Trainer Gilmstead and the other assistants were broad smiles following the workout yesterday. Gilmstead has doctored the Hoosier cripples until the majority of them are back in their old shape. And those who are still on the ailing list are suffering from only minor hurts.

The second squad, hurled against the freshmen in a spirited scrimmage yesterday, gave its best exhibition in weeks. The backs plunged through the line and skirted the ends in a way that sent smiles across the faces of the rooters. The line opened holes and fought from the beginning of the workout until the end.

"The team is rounding into great shape," said Coach Harper at the conclusion of the practice. "The men are showing excellent spirit and conditions are most satisfactory. I look for a mighty successful season."

Some there were who had been doubtful if Notre Dame would be able to slip over a victory on Wabash Saturday. But the spirit of skepticism is a thing of the past.

As a result of the changes wrought during the past few days, a feeling of intense optimism prevails on the school campus.

Expect Hard Fight. Coaches, players and students expect a hard fight from Wabash. In fact they know they will get it, for the Little Giants are out for blood.

But the rooters are looking for a victory. The Hoosiers have basketball scores to make up for and a slate to keep clean and there is going to be no letup during the clash with the men from Crawfordsville.

Interest in the Wabash game took a big leap upward yesterday as a result of the form showed by the second string men, for when the scrubs go good in scrimmages against the freshmen, students figure it is a good omen for the varsity. According to reports current at Notre Dame yesterday, the advance sale of tickets for the Notre Dame-Wabash game is heavy. Work is progressing rapidly in preparing the field and stands for a great crowd.

Escape Scrimmage. The first string men were not put through a regular scrimmage yesterday. While the seconds were scrimmaging against the freshmen, under the direction of Assistant Coach Rockne, Coach Harper took the regulars on the regular playing field for a long practice.

The four second team backs, Dorals at quarter, Miller and O'Hara at halfbacks and Stackford at fullback gained ground constantly, while the work of Meagher, the sophomore substitute end, elicited the commendation of the coaches.

Meagher has been showing rapid improvement during the past few weeks and students expect him to develop into a star.

YALE NEEDS A PUNTER

Several Changes Are Made in Line-up During Practice.

International News Service: NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 26.—The varsity had a long scrimmage yesterday afternoon against the third team with changes in the line-up as the result of the recent injuries and the need of a punter in the first place. Jacques, who has been working very hard for several days, was given a rest and Braden was put in his place. In addition to his other characteristics the installing of Braden at fullback gives Yale a punter now sadly needed.

Another change was made in the line in the moving of Gates over to right tackle. Gates has been playing left end particularly all season. He weighs 180 pounds and is six feet tall.

The first string men were not put through a regular scrimmage yesterday. While the seconds were scrimmaging against the freshmen, under the direction of Assistant Coach Rockne, Coach Harper took the regulars on the regular playing field for a long practice.

The four second team backs, Dorals at quarter, Miller and O'Hara at halfbacks and Stackford at fullback gained ground constantly, while the work of Meagher, the sophomore substitute end, elicited the commendation of the coaches.

Meagher has been showing rapid improvement during the past few weeks and students expect him to develop into a star.

Expect Hard Fight. Coaches, players and students expect a hard fight from Wabash. In fact they know they will get it, for the Little Giants are out for blood.

But the rooters are looking for a victory. The Hoosiers have basketball scores to make up for and a slate to keep clean and there is going to be no letup during the clash with the men from Crawfordsville.

Interest in the Wabash game took a big leap upward yesterday as a result of the form showed by the second string men, for when the scrubs go good in scrimmages against the freshmen, students figure it is a good omen for the varsity. According to reports current at Notre Dame yesterday, the advance sale of tickets for the Notre Dame-Wabash game is heavy. Work is progressing rapidly in preparing the field and stands for a great crowd.

HAMMOND GAME TO BE TITLE FRAY

Clash With Tan and Blue Will Go Far Toward Deciding Northern Championship.

The South Bend-Hammond game which is booked for Oliver field next Saturday afternoon will go a long way in deciding the championship of northern Indiana. Hammond beat East Chicago, at Hammond last Saturday 19 to 7.

The Hammond team was spoken of as well trained and scrappy aggregation of gridiron artists; it has a variable attack and is considered as a strong contender for state honors.

The local eleven is considerable heavier than the Hammond team; although the visitors backfield outweighs the local's three pounds to the man. The Tan and Blue aggregation as a whole outweighs the Hammond crew 110 pounds or an average of 10 pounds to the man.

Coach E. H. Burnham is working his men regularly on the new defense which he has fashioned to break up the visitors' passes and wide end runs which seem to be their chief asset.

Just before the close of yesterday's workout Coach Burnham sent the regulars against the seconds for 20 minutes. The back field showed a considerable amount of pep and looked good with its new style of defense which had the seconds guessing.

Makielski was not permitted to enter the scrimmage, he is suffering from a severely wrenched shoulder and is not expected to start Saturday's fray.

LITTLE GIANTS STARS SAVED FOR NOTRE DAME

Hannicker and Sims, Tackle and Half, Not in Game Against Butler—Lindsey Star.

News-Times Special Service: CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 26.—The playing of the Little Giants against Butler at Ingalls field demonstrated that Coach Sheeks has been doing things with his team during the last week, following the one-sided defeat suffered at Lafayette a week ago. Wabash defeated the Butlerites, 56 to 0, making eight touchdowns and a drop kick. It was not, however, an exhibition of scientific football.

The best football came at the start in the first quarter in which neither team scored and in which the visitors outplayed the Wabash eleven. After this period both teams seemed to be listless and the visitors, some of whom were playing their first college game, clearly had "back ache."

Two touchdowns came in the second period, one in the third and five in the final session when panic and lack of leadership were in evidence. Sheeks made many substitutions in the last quarter in his efforts to save his men as much as possible for Saturday's big clash at South Bend with Notre Dame.

Mikels at guard, Hannicker at tackle and Sims at halfback, did not get into the fray.

Lindsey, the freshman quarterback, was the bright star for Wabash, although Bacon, fullback and Stonebraker and Captain Cauldwell in the line were factors for the Scarlet. Lindsey's open field running, his good generalship and his dropkick in the final quarter stamped him as a comer. He looks to be a worthy successor of George Miller, Jack Hargrave, Skeet Lambert and Bee Pfuhl, four of the best quarterbacks who have played in Indiana.

Sheeks is working Lindsey and Green alternately at the pivotal position in the hope that he can develop two stars.

LOCAL GIRL IS MADE COXSWAIN OF '18 CREW

Miss Helen Lent Is Selected by Wellesley Rowing Coach and President.

News-Times Special Service: WELLESLEY, Mass., Oct. 26.—Helen Lent of South Bend, daughter of Dr. E. J. Lent, was today chosen as coxswain of the junior class crew at Wellesley college. Miss Lent will make an excellent guide for the crew. Coach Fette and Lois M. Banks, head of Wellesley rowing, selected the crews. Catherine Hughes, daughter of the republican presidential candidate, is rowing number four on the freshman eight.

NOTRE DAME WILL NOT PLAY EAST, SAYS HARPER

There is little or no likelihood of Notre Dame's meeting Dartmouth, Tufts or Brown in a post season game at Boston.

Director of Athletics Harper when questioned yesterday as to his attitude on the matter, said that Notre Dame would not play in the east after the regular schedule.

ON THE GREEN CLOTH.

During play in the second round of the billiard tournament at the East Side Billiard hall yesterday three men were eliminated from the running.

Yesterday's scores are: Keene 100, Curi 52; Bredemus 100, Matthews 48; McNabb 100, Wilfong 92.

When To Act

After having a matter presented to you clearly, and you say to yourself, "I think that is right. It is surely a good thing and I ought to do it."

This is the time to act as you have reasoned it out in a logical way.

To delay action now, may mean never to come back to it. You know saving money is a logical sensible thing to do. Why not start in today in a small way at this bank?
